WELCOME TO ISTRIA

Istrian peninsula is located in the northeast part of the Adriatic sea. Istria connects Croatia and Slovenia.

Istria invites you to enjoy its beauty, crystal clear sea, and cultural heritage which dates back thousands of years.

We should not forget to mention fantastic gastronomy, with numerous wine and olive oil gastronomic routes that Istria is proud of. Our local and natural products, like truffles, fish, salt, olive oil, Teran and Malvasia wine are worth of tasting.

Istria is known for its warm and friendly hosts who always cater to their guests needs and without whom a stay in Istria would surely not be the same.

Piran and Portorož, two towns on Slovenia's short Adriatic coast, could hardly be more different. Picturesque Piran, known as Pirano to Italians, charms visitors with its narrow old streets of medieval houses, while Portorož – the name means 'port of roses' – is a modern, Umag conquers with its allure, diversity and richness of the tourist offer.

Umag is a town of around 13,000 inhabitants which with about 45 km of the coastline and interesting hinterland integrates special features of the whole region and might be the best introduction into a different experience of the Mediterranean.

Umag has something for every season. From winter festivals, carnivals, wellness days in winter, early spring to gastronomic events or well - known sporting events such as Tennis ATP in Umag in July - you will never be bored in Umag.

upmarket coastal resort known for its exclusive hotels, health spas and lively nightlife. They are, however, just a short distance apart, giving visitors the best of both worlds.

Umag in Istria is the first city in Croatia you will reach when approaching Istria from western Europe.
